THE CHALLENGE

Why Businesses Need Integrated Inventory Software

Most businesses still rely on spreadsheets, disconnected tools, and manual stock counts. This creates discrepancies, stockouts, overstocking, and lack of real-time visibility across locations.

Real-time Stock Visibility

Single dashboard showing live stock levels across all stores and warehouses — no more guesswork.

Role-based Access Control

Granular permissions via groups/roles — Admin, Manager, Store Manager, Sales User each see only what they need.

Multi-location Ready

Manage multiple stores, warehouses, or distribution centers with independent stock and operations.

Organized Product Catalog

Brands, categories, SKUs, attributes, and pricing — structured for fast search, filtering, and reporting.

End-to-End Order Flow

Create, track, and fulfill orders seamlessly with full audit trail from creation to completion.

Actionable Business Reports

Analyze products, orders, sales, and inventory trends to make data-driven purchasing and stocking decisions.

CORE MODULES

Complete Inventory Functionality in One Platform

Each module addresses a critical inventory workflow — together forming a complete operating system for your stock and order management.

1 Dashboard

Real-time inventory overview with total products, orders, stores, stock levels, and key business statistics in one unified view.

2 Users

Manage system users with full CRUD operations. Assign appropriate access levels and track user activity across the platform.

3 Groups / Roles

Create roles like Administrator, Manager, Store Manager, Sales User. Assign granular permissions to control module-level access.

4 Brands

Maintain product brands for easier management, filtering, and brand-wise reporting across the catalog.

5 Categories

Organize products into logical category hierarchies. Simplifies searching, filtering, and category-based reporting.

6 Stores

Manage multiple stores, warehouses, or inventory locations. Each maintains independent stock and operational data.

7 Products

Core product management — name, SKU/code, brand, category, price, quantity, attributes, and complete inventory details.

8 Orders

Full order lifecycle management — create orders, manage details, track status, and maintain order history.

9 Reports

Business intelligence reports for products, orders, sales, and inventory analysis to drive decisions.

10 Company

Centralized company profile — name, address, contact, logo, tax info, and application-wide settings.

10 modules. One platform.

A complete operating system for your stock and order management.
